FOREWORD

The purpose of this bulletin is to compile such data pertaining to the Southern Illinois State Normal University as may be of interest and value, not merely at the present time, but more especially for future readers, when many details, now at hand, would be difficult to obtain; for one of the derelictions of many people is the lamentable lack of permanent and reliable records of significant events, and of the persons who figured in those events.

Doubtless an embarrassing number of errors have found their way into these few pages thru one cause and another; and items of real worth have been overlooked, due in part to the weakness of the human memory and to the lack of proper record being made at the time of their occurrence.

The author of this bulletin acknowledges, with much gratitude, his indebtedness to the many friends who have kindly supplied much valuable information which could not otherwise have been obtained; to the History of Jackson County and to the early pages of the "Anniversary Souvenir" published in connection with the "Quarter Centennial" of the Institution, which was observed in an elaborate program during the Commencement Week of June 1899.

A HISTORICAL SKETCH

OF THE

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS STATE NORMAL UNIVERSITY

The people of this republic are justly proud of their public school systems and of their institutions of higher learning. The history of each of these two classes of schools reveals the true spirit of the American civilization; it exhibits a rational basis for a nation's growth and perpetuity, as it provides for an enlightened citizenship.

The enormous wealth annually poured into the public and institutional treasuries for these sources of enlightenment and culture indicates, in some measure at least, the estimate our people place upon the proper training and evolution of the powers of her children and youth, in order that they may be thoroly equipped for the duties and relationships of life, realizing in some sense the responsibility of one generation to provide the best conditions possible for the one to follow.

Such being the case, an historical account of any one of these institutions should be of more than passing interest, especially to its immediate friends who know somewhat of its career, to those who may have been its beneficiaries and to those who may be in the coming years. There are reasons why this is peculiarly true of a typical normal school for its special function is to prepare those who are to be the special factors in the education of the people. It may not be irrelevant to the protest against the unwarranted use of the term normal by those who appropriate it for its commercial value, since they seem to have but little claim for its use, save the prestige it may afford the school. The "Summer Normals," not yet wholly extinct in some parts of the state, is an example of its unfair application.

The "Prairie State" may well boast of the provision she has made for this special training of her actual and prospective teachers, having now five well equipped state normal schools, receiving thru the last General Assembly the liberal amount of $1,427,750.00 for the biennium, extending from July 1, 1913, to June 30, 1915.

This amount seems incredible when it is remembered that it seemed almost an impossibility to secure even a few thousand dollars for the older normal school in the early sixties and not much easier a full decade later when the Southern Illinois normal school united its forces with those of her older sister in pleading for appropriations.

A PRETENTIOUS TITLE

The question is frequently asked, why are the two older schools called normal universities? In brief, the answer is as follows: The distinguished title was given to the older one that she might participate in the use of an educational fund, set apart by the general government which amounted to nearly thirteen thousand dollars per annum. When the Southern Illinois normal school came into being its friend insisted that it should have a no less pretentious name and also share in the interest on the College and Seminary Fund. In establishing the three later schools it was decided to give them names similar to those of other state normal schools and more in keeping with the purpose of the institutions.

EARLY AGITATION

The subject of this sketch had its statutory birth by an act of the legislature in 1869, the bill receiving the approval of Governor John M. Palmer on April 20. Previous to this date however, the friends of education in the southern part of Illinois realized the need of a training school for teachers and were discussing the matter privately and at public gatherings. From a chapter in the "History of Jackson County," prepared by Professor S. E. Harwood in 1878, it appears that at a meeting of teachers in an institute held at Salem in the spring of 1868, it was decided to make a formal call for a meeting to be held in Centralia in the following September. A few days later a similar action was taken by a company of teachers at Carbondale, apparently without any knowledge of the action taken at Salem, calling a meeting to be held at Carbondale in the latter part of May or early part of June. The meeting was held on June 24, resulting in plans for a general meeting to be held in Centralia on September 1. It is claimed that this initial meeting at Carbondale was largely due to the enthusiastic efforts of the Rev. Clark Braden, then President of the Southern Illinois College then in operation at Carbondale, located on the site now occupied by the Lincoln School building.

It is also stated that Dr. Robert Allyn, then President of Mc. Kendree College, wrote the call for the general meeting which was held in Centralia. The account further states that nearly one thousand persons were present at the meeting in Carbondale, representing quite every county in the southern end of the state.

THE FIRST LEGISLATIVE ENACTMENT

The Centralia meeting resulted in the appointment of a committee to present the matter before the next General Assembly, which was to meet the following January. This was effectually done, consummating in the passage of a bill appropriating $75,000 for establishing a normal school in southern Illinois. The bill was approved by Governor Palmer, March 9, 1869.

In due time the following persons were named by the governor as "Charter Trustees:" Captain David Hurd of Cairo, General Eli Boyer of Olney, Colonel Thomas M. Harris of Shelbyville, Rev. Elihu J. Palmer of Carbondale, brother of the governor, and Samuel J. Flannagan of Benton.

THE LOCATION OF THE INSTITUTION

It was no unusual thing that much interest centered about the matter of just where in southern Illinois, should the new educational institution be located. The contestants were Pana, Vandalia, Olney, Carlyle, Centralia, Tamaroa, Duquoin and Carbondale. Intense interest developed and the strife became disagreeably warm; so much so that after over forty four years have passed there still survive traces of the lack of genuine brotherly love. To secure this prize, Carbondale assumed an obligation which has proved a burden till the present time.

The particular site chosen is a tract of about twenty acres lying at the southern limits of the town and adjacent to the right of way of the Illinois Central Railroad, on the west side thereof. It may be appropriate to add that Carbondale had a warm friend in the person of the late General John A. Logan, whose residence was at that time in Carbondale.

While the appropriation made by the Legislature was but $75,000.00 the little town of Carbondale and other friends in Jackson County contributed enough to authorize the Board of Trustees to let the contract for the building amounting to $210,000. The plans and specifications were made by Thomas Walsh of St. Louis.

The corner stone was laid on May 17, 1870 with very impressive exercises, under the direction of the Masonic Fraternity; Grand Master, H. G. Reynolds conducting the ceremonies. The report states that not less than fifteen thousand people were present on that occasion. President Richard Edwards of the other normal school and Dr. Robert Allyn were the principal speakers in addition to Mr. Reynolds.

DEATH OF CONTRACTOR

During the erection of the building, the contractor, Mr. James Mr. Campbell was almost instantly killed by the falling of a large timber. Because of some features of the terms of the contract, the death of Mr. Campbell caused some difficulty in completing the building. To meet this emergency the state undertook to finish the task. Consequently the Board of Charter Trustees was abandoned and in their stead six Building Commissioners were appointed, viz. John Wood of Cairo, Elihu Palmer of Carbondale, Hiram Walker of Jonesboro, R. H. Sturgiss of Vandalia, Nathan Bishop of Marion, and F. M. Malone of Anna. On account of these unexpected delays and new conditions the entire cost of the building and its furnishings amounted to nearly $265,000.00.

STYLE OF ARCHITECTURE

Since this building was destroyed, a brief description thereof may not be amiss at this time. The style of architecture was of the Norman type; the walls were of red brick trimmed with red sandstone of two colors. The extreme length was 215 feet, the extreme width was 109 feet, four stories in height, the first being 14 feet, the second 18 feet, the third 22 feet and the fourth, or mansard, 19 feet. Their uses were as follows: the first for janitor's rooms, heating apparatus, chemical laboratory and a carpenter's shop; the second and third for offices, class rooms and a large study hall; the fourth for the library, museum, two literary halls and an assembly hall.

Anticipating the completion of the building in a short time, Governor John L. Beveridge, in 1873, appointed the following persons to constitute the first regular board which should, as their first duty, select a faculty of instruction, and provide suitable furniture, apparatus, and such other equipment as they deemed necessary: Edwin S. Russell of Mt. Carmel, James Robarts of Carbondale, Lewis M. Phillips of Nashville, Thomas S. Ridgway of Shawneetown, and Jacob W. Wilkin of Marshall. The board was organized as follows: President, Thomas S. Ridgway; Secretary, Dr. Roberts; Treasurer, John G. Campbell; Registrar, Charles W. Jerome.

By an act of the General Assembly of 1889 the Superintendent of public Instruction became ex-officio member of the board of trustees thereafter.

DEDICATION AND OPENING

The completed building was dedicated on July 1, 1874. The principal speakers were Dr. Richard Edwards who came to take the place of the State Superintendent, Dr. Newton Bateman, who was unable to be present on account of illness, President Charles H. Fowler of Northwestern University, Dr. Robert Allyn the newly elected president of the institution, Hon. J. J. Bird of Cairo, and the president of the new board of trustees, Thos. S. Ridgway.

On the following day, July 2, the doors of the institution were thrown open to the young people of the state, especially of the southern part, in a special session of four weeks length. The first regular session was opened on the sixth of September, when the school was hopefully launched upon its career of usefulness.

The members of the faculty were enthusiastic and co-operative in every good word and work; the people of Carbondale were responsive to every call for assistance and sympathetic support, a condition that does not always prevail in older institutions when local interests become more varied and complex.

BURNING OF THE FIRST BUILDING

To one, not on the ground and not familiar with the conditions then existing in Southern Illinois, it is difficult to imagine the feeling of the people toward the new institution that meant so much to the present and future generations in intellectual and social attainments. The building was the pride of the town and of the entire state. But its glory was of short duration; for on the afternoon of November 26, 1883 it was discovered to be on fire at the south end in the mansard roof. The wind being in the north, the burning was less rapid than it otherwise would have been, giving more time for saving the furniture, apparatus and the valuable library, which had been selected with much care by President Allyn. By the heroic efforts of the student body, the faculty and the citizens of the town, nearly all the valuable material was rescued from the flames except that in the museum, which was indeed very creditable for one so few years in collecting.

Notwithstanding the great loss and paralyzing effect of so serious a catastrophe, the stricken people, one and all, rallied to the emergency by calling a mass meeting the same evening and matured plans for carrying on the school, with a loss of only the following day, Wednesday, as Thursday was Thanksgiving and no school was to be held on Friday. By the following Monday morning a sufficient number of halls, offices, and churches in the town had been tendered the institution to enable the school to resume its regular work.

THE TEMPORARY BUILDING

Thru the timely liberality of the citizens of Carbondale, members of the faculty and others, a temporary building was promptly erected on the campus and ready for use by the following February. This was a temporary home for the school while it awaited the action of the next General Assembly which would not meet in regular session till January 1885, more than a year off.

This improvised home was constructed in the form of a Greek cross, one story in height, the center being used for the assembly hall and study room and the arms for recitation rooms in such manner that all departments were provided for. It was indeed a unique structure, having its limitations and imperfections, but it served to keep the school intact and in running order till the Legislature met and made provision for rebuilding. Had the school disbanded, the chances for an appropriation for rebuilding would doubtless have been endangered, as at that time the normal schools of Illinois were not on as good footing as they are at the present time.

The experiences and lessons taught by this seeming calamity had their compensations, and are remembered with much interest by those who participated therein.

THE RESTORED BUILDING

The 34th General Assembly, which convened in the early part of January 1885, responded promptly and liberally to the call for an appropriation with which to rebuild, granting $152,065.00 for said purpose. It had been determined that the foundation and the walls of the first story were practically uninjured and by a small expense would be as good as they ever were, thus saving a large part of what otherwise would be necessary to restore the building. In this respect the board established a precedent which has guided their successors, with but few exceptions, in their requests for funds, that of limiting their askings to the amount necessary to accomplish the purpose in mind; not planning to consume the amount appropriated in partially completing a building, and afterward going before the legislature for another request for funds. In this particular instance a small balance was returned to the state treasury.

The plans and specifications were prepared by Mr. Isaac Taylor of St. Louis. The contract was let to Messrs. Parry & Deal of Peoria. The Supt. of Construction was Mr. Isaac Rapp of Carbondale. The dedicatory exercises were held on February 24, 1887, the principal speakers were Governor Richard J. Oglesby, who had approved the bill on June 27, 1885, Thomas S. Ridgway and President Robert Allyn. In many respects the new structure is superior to the former one.

There was a feeling of great rejoicing when the school entered into its new home, after many months of cramped quarters and serious inconveniences. So significant was this occurrence in the life of the institution that a large portion of the history of the school dates either "before" or "after" the "fire."

There were some serious objections to having a fourth story to the first building, and when the fire had its origin in the mansard part it was no difficult matter to have the style of architecture so altered as to eliminate the fourth story in the new building. Retaining the foundation walls, the general contour of the restored structure is necessarily the same, but the roof is quite unlike the former one.

THE SCIENCE BUILDING

In the course of a few years, less than a decade, it became necessary to make more ample provision for the ever growing needs of the school. The several departments of science were needing larger space for laboratory facilities, and the library had outgrown the spacious room that had been assigned to it. To meet these demands the 39th General Assembly made an appropriation of $40,000.00 for the erection of a Science building. The bill was approved by Governor John P. Altgeld on June 7, 1895. The architect for this building was Mr. C. Ward Rapp of Chicago. The contract was given to M. T. Lewman & Co. of Louisville, Ky. The corner stone "was laid by the Honorable Owen Scott, Grand Master A. F. A. M., State of Illinois, July 21, A. D. 1896:—A. L. 5826." This building was dedicated on December 22, 1896. The principal speakers were the president of the board of trustees, Hon. Charles W. Bliss, President H. W. Everest, and Judge W. W. Barr.

THE LIBRARY BUILDING

The continued growth of the school in the enrichment of its courses of study and the needs of the library in a few years made it necessary to consider the matter of more room. At the suggestion of the president of the board, Judge S. P. Wheeler, it was decided to make an effort to secure an appropriation for the erection of a library building. In compliance with the appeal, the 43rd General Assembly set apart $25,000.00 for this purpose. The Bill was approved by Gov. Richard Yates on May 15, 1903; Mr. C. Ward Rapp was asked to prepare the plans and specifications; his father, Mr. Isaac Rapp, was employed to superintend the construction; the contract was given to the Southern Illinois Construction Company of East St. Louis.

The building was dedicated on June 6, 1904, the principal address being delivered by Judge Wheeler. Because of his deep interest in the institution for so many years, and his special interest in the new home for the library, his colleagues named this, the third building in the plant, in his honor. Thru the kindness of Mrs. Wheeler a very excellent likeness of Mr. Wheeler was given to the library, a very acceptable and appropriate contribution to the walls that are most dear to the student body, to the faculty and to all who frequent its precincts.

The General plan of this building provided a second story of steel stacks and glass floor so as to provide for almost a double amount of shelf room. The 47th General Assembly made an appropriation of $2,000.00 for this purpose as the capacity of the lower floor had been reached. These latter steel stacks were placed by the Library Bureau people of Chicago. With the present equipment it will be a number of years before additional shelf room will be needed.

THE MODEL SCHOOL BUILDING

From 1887 till 1909 the Training School was housed in the lower story of the main building under conditions that never were satisfactory because of insufficient light, imperfect ventilation and unsanitary conditions in general. In order to remove these objectionable features the 45th General Assembly was asked to make an appropriation of $50,000.00 for the erection of a special home for this very important department of the institution. Said bill was passed, and received the approval of Governor Charles S. Deneen on May 27, 1907. The contract was let to the Hanson Brothers of Chicago. The plans and specifications were prepared by the state architect, William Carbyss Zimmerman; the Superintendent of Construction was Mr. Walter W. Friedline. Because of the particular character of work to be done here it was fitting that the corner stone should be laid by a representative of the Alumni Association. The member selected to perform this delightful task was a member of the valedictorian of the first graduating class, Miss Mary Wright, of Cobden, Illinois. These exercises were held on June 4, 1908.

This building was dedicated with a special program on January 11, 1909. Superintendent Francis G. Blair, Hon. William F. Bundy, President of the Board, and Professor Samuel E. Harwood, Superintendent of the Training School were the speakers.

A special appropriation of $1,000.00 was made by the following Legislature for furnishing the building.

It was a very appropriate expression of the esteem in which Dr. Robert Allyn is still held in the affections of the people to name this home of the training school the "Allyn Building."

BAYLISS FIELD AND GRAND STAND

Among other contributions made in order to secure the normal school at Carbondale, was a tract of land containing about eleven acres lying just east of the public school property and extending to the city limits on the east. Not until about 1900 was there any use made of this property. The demand for an athletic field became sufficiently strong to justify the expenditure of sufficient funds to put this tract in condition for use in the way indicated. It was enclosed with a suitable fence, trees were planted in large numbers next to the outside in three rows, and a running track was constructed. In 1905 a cottage was built on the premises as a home of one of the janitors, who would serve as care-taker of the entire property. In 1907 a grand stand was built at a cost of $1,000.00, which has a capacity of seating 1,000 people. An explanation of the naming of this field is given on another page.

THE WOMAN'S BUILDING

In the early years of the school there seemed to be but little difficulty in securing satisfactory boarding places for the students, but in later years conditions in these matters had so changed that the housing of the students became a serious problem, which increased with the years, till a dormitory, at least for the young women, seemed to be imperative. The first attempt to secure an appropriation was unsuccessful, but the second effort secured the passage of a bill setting apart $75,000.00, a reduction of $25,000.00 from the amount asked for. The bill was approved by Governor Deneen, May 27, 1911.

Because of a large number of bills for new buildings having been passed by the 47th General Assembly, it was found necessary to defer the erection of some of them till the second year of the biennium. The normal schools were thot better able to wait than those intended to accomodate the wards of the commonwealth. In due time the plans and specifications were prepared by state architect, Mr. Zimmerman, the contract let to "The Schmidt Brothers Co." of Chicago, with Mr. Walter W. Friedline as superintendent of construction.

Because of repeated delays and disappointments the dormitory was scarcely ready for occupancy at the opening of the present school year, 1913-1914; but under the circumstances it was decided to open its doors to the young ladies without further delay. Its appreciation by the young women was shown by their eagerness to enjoy its privileges and comforts even before the school year opened. In a short time all the rooms were taken and at once it became the center of the social life of the institution, and sets a standard in many of the relationships of the student.

In the selection of an appropriate name for the Woman's Building it was finally decided to name it in honor of the noted advocate of "Woman Suffrage" and other phases of woman's advancement, Susan B. Anthony. Hereafter much of the life of the Southern Illinois Normal University will center in and around "Anthony Hall."

Anthony Hall was formally dedicated on the afternoon of October 23, 1913, in connection with the installation of President Shryock, an account of which appears elsewhere, the principal speakers being Senator Kent E. Keller, Hon. W. W. Williams, a member of the Board of Trustees, Judge W. W. Barr, President of the Board, Mrs. Judge Butler of Cairo, and President Henry W. Shryock. The occasion was one of unusual interest and was enjoyed by a large concourse of students, people of the city and from many surrounding cities. These significant and enjoyable exercises were concluded in the evening by a public reception held in the parlors of Anthony Hall, a very fitting closing of the day's program.

BOARDS OF TRUSTEES

As stated in an earlier page, the bill providing for the establishment of the institution called for the appointment of a Board of Charter Trustees. On account of the death of the contractor and some serious shrinkage in the subscriptions to the fund which secured the location of the school, the state assumed the completion of the building by the appointment of six Building Commissioners. Upon the completion of their work this board was abandoned and in their stead a regular Board of Trustees was appointed, who with their successors and subsequent successors from term to term, have served the state till the present time. Their names and dates of appointment and retirement are as follows:

Charter Trustees

Daniel Hurd, Cairo.

Eli Boyer, Olney.

Elihu J. Palmer, Carbondale.

Thos. M. Harris, Shelbyville.

Samuel E. Flannagan, Benton.

(Appointed by Governor John M. Palmer, 1869.)

THE FACULTY

The following is a list of the Faculty from the opening of the Institution to the date of this Bulletin, April, 1914, the first eleven constituting the faculty for the first three years; also, the offices held in the faculty, the more important branches taught, and degrees received, either before coming to the institution or afterward. Prior to 1893 the Annual Catalog did not publish the degrees held by members of the faculty, which makes it very difficult at this time to obtain reliable data on this matter; hence some omissions of degrees which otherwise would be given.

PERSONAL MENTION

It would be a source of much pleasure to the compiler of these notes to dwell with some detail upon the services of each of the different members of the several Boards of Trustees, and of the Faculties, but space will not permit. However, he takes the privilege of making brief mention of the officers of each group and a few others.

PRESIDENTS OF THE BOARDS

By consulting the full list of trustees it will be observed that the Hon. Thomas S. Ridgway of Shawneetown was the first to occupy this responsible position, being appointed in the latter part of 1873 and served till the spring of 1893; his retirement along with that of his colleagues being due to a change of state administration.

Mr. Ridgway possessed many qualities that rendered him an efficient administrative officer. It was during this period of his life that he served one term as state treasurer. Four years after his retirement from the board he was tendered a reappointment thereon, but his somewhat impaired health and extensive business interests prompted him to decline the honor and the responsibility. He died not long after this date. The small body of water on the campus is called in his honor, "Lake Ridgway."

Mr. Ridgway was succeeded by the Hon. Charles W. Bliss of Hillsboro, who also made an excellent officer in said capacity. It was during his term of office that the Science building was erected and equipped. Upon the resignation of Mr. Bliss and his colleagues, all of whom were appointed by Governor Altgeld, a new board, with the exception of the State Superintendent, Mr. Inglis, was appointed by Governor Tanner. Judge Samuel P. Wheeler of Springfield, who had served on the board from 1883 to 1893, was chosen by his associates as their president, which position he occupied till the date of his resignation in 1906. His two terms of service aggregated seventeen years. In recognition of his long and valuable service in this capacity his colleagues on the board named the library in his honor, an account of which is noted on a previous page.

Dr. F. C. Vandervort of Bloomington, who had been a member since 1899, was made Judge Wheeler's successor in 1906. In this capacity he served till 1909; making a period of ten years of faithful labor and attention to the needs of the institution. The doctor took a deep interest in all matters pertaining to the school, very rarely missing a meeting of the board.

Upon the retirement of Dr. Vandervort, the Hon. William F. Bundy was promoted to the presidency. Having been a student of the school at the time of the burning of the first building, it was not strange that he manifested unusual interest in its welfare. Upon the resignation of Mr. Bundy and the other members, except the State Superintendent, in 1913, a new board was placed in charge, and Judge W. W. Barr of Carbondale was elected President. Having taken an active part in securing favorable legislation for the institution in its early years, and later in securing the appropriation for rebuilding, after the fire, it was regarded by all who were familiar with the facts, a very wise and appropriate selection, and they anticipate a continuation of the prosperity and an enlargement of the usefulness of the school.

SECRETARIES OF THE BOARDS

Every one familiar with the history of the institution would question the faithfulness of any chronicle of its affairs and its servants were not some little space given to the local members of the Board who gave unstintingly of their time and counsel that the school might serve the state wisely. The first in this list was Dr. James Robarts, a member of the first board to take charge of the institution upon the completion of the first building, and to organize the work of the school. As shown in the list of trustees, Dr. Robarts was the local member, and was the first secretary. Being a professional man of rare attainments, having been graduated from one of the best medical colleges of the country, the Jefferson of Philadelphia, his ideals were above the ordinary. Naturally, he was ambitious for the new school and was in favor of its being in fact what it was in name, a university. In this he was disappointed. His service in the army as surgeon and his extensive practice in Southern Illinois gave him a prestige which was of great value to the school. His official connection with the institution continued from 1873 to 1885, a period of twelve years.

Dr. Robarts was succeeded by Captain E. J. Ingersoll, also of Carbondale, and likewise made Secretary of the board. Mr. Ingersoll, along with Judge Barr, Senator Lemma and others, was very influential in securing the appropriation of $152,065.00 for rebuilding after the fire. During the progress of the work, Captain Ingersoll was a daily visitor at the building and gave freely of his excellent judgment in multitudes of occasions when it was timely counsel. While in the General Assembly in 1895, Mr. Ingersoll was the author of the bill authorizing the appropriation of $40,000.00 for the erection of what is now known as the Science Building.

During the construction of the Library Building the Captain was again a member of the Board and showed the same unselfish spirit in watching the progress of the work he had exhibited at all other times when his advice was of value to the institution.

As indicated above, Mr. Ingersoll was a member of the Board at two different times, the first extending thru eight years, the second thru five years, making a total of thirteen years. At the close of his first term he was succeeded by his fellow townsman, Mr. Samuel W. Dunnaway as local trustee. During his term of service, the Science Building was added to the plant in addition to many other improvements. Mr. Dunnaway was no exception in the matter of devotion to the best interest of the school. His successor as local member and secretary, was the late Col. Frank A. Prickett, whose term of service covered three years.

Mr. Hugh Lauder was the successor to Captain Ingersoll whose second term followed that of Colonel Prickett. He also, was secretary of the board and the local member. During Mr. Lauder's term of eight years the grand-stand on Bayliss Field, the Allyn Building, and the Woman's building were added to the rapidly growing plant. In addition to these acquisitions the state farm of nearly sixty acres was purchased. It was thru the business sagacity of Mr. Lauder that the purchase was made at a very opportune time and on very reasonable terms. While he was interested in all phases of the school's prosperity, he was more deeply concerned in the enlargement and development of the Agricultural department, and retired with the feeling that he had been instrumental in establishing one of the most important departments of the Institution.

THE TREASURERS OF THE BOARD

Upon an examination of the lists of trustees and their officers it will be noticed that those who have served as custodians of the state's funds have been among the prominent citizens of Carbondale.

The first to assume this responsible task was Mr. John G. Campbell, son of Mr. James M. Campbell, the contractor who lost his life in the erection of the building. His period of service extended from 1874 to 1878. The funds were kept by the banking firm of Richart and Campbell who were leading merchants of Carbondale, this Mr. Campbell being a brother of the treasurer. The funds of the institution, issued by the state treasurer by quarterly allowances, were kept by this firm till the summer of 1895.

Mr. John Campbell was followed by the appointment of John S. Bridges, who was treasurer from 1878 till his death in 1890; one year longer than the one next to him in length of service. Mr. Bridges was succeeded by Mr. Samuel T. Brush till 1893, when Mr. James M. Evans was appointed treasurer and served till 1897, the close of Governor Altgeld's administration.

Mr. E. K. Porter was then made the custodian of the funds of the school, and remained in charge till 1900, when Mr. Harry R. Searing of the class of 1887 was made his successor. Mr. Searing served but one year, when Dr. H. C. Mitchell was selected as the keeper of the funds from 1901 till 1905. He was followed by Mr. Porter, who has had the distinction of being appointed the second time to the important position of treasurer, and also of making out the monthly and quarterly reports in a most complete and approved form. In addition to this he gave his personal attention to the minutest details of the office, and the courtesies thereof to members of the faculty and others who had business relations with the treasurer.

Mr. Porter was succeeded by Mr. Charles E. Hamilton, the present incumbent, who will, without doubt, preserve the dignity of the office.

STATE SUPERINTENDENTS

It would be a grave oversight, indeed, not to go outside the list of officials of the boards of trustees and give at least a passing notice of the state superintendents, who by virtue of their office became members of the several boards of trustees of state educational institutions, under the act of the legislature of 1889. It is sad to note that the only person now living who has occupied that exalted position since this law became effective, except the present incumbent, is the Hon. J. H. Freeman of Aurora, who completed the unexpired term caused by the death of Mr. Inglis.

It was a wise provision to bring to the several boards of the state the ripe scholarship, large experience and broad vision of those who must necessarily view the problems of these institutions in the light of the entire system of education in the commonwealth.

Dr. Richard Edwards, then late President of the Illinois State Normal University, was the first to enter upon the duties thus provided for. Since the law became effective during his term of office, he was a member but two years, but the influence of his personality and familiarity with school problems of Illinois was of immense value to the school. In 1891 he was succeeded by Supt. Henry Raab of Belleville, retiring in 1895. His rugged personality and profound earnestness had a salutary influence upon the policies of the board. Mr. Raab's deep solicitude for the primary and elementary grades in the public schools of the state showed itself in some advanced policies in the training department of the normal school here.

Professor Samuel M. Inglis of Greenville, who became a member of the board of trustees thru the appointment of Governor Cullom in 1881, served till 1883 when he was elected a member of the faculty. From 1892 to 1894 he was secretary of the faculty. In the fall of 1894 he was elected Supt. of Public Instruction which continued his connection with the institution but in a more official capacity. His long acquaintance with the school rendered his services all the more valuable.

Upon the death of Mr. Inglis in the summer of 1898, his Assistant, the Honorable J. H. Freeman, was appointed to fill out the unexpired term, till the following January. This short period gave Mr. Freeman but little opportunity to affect the workings of the school; however his keen insight into the merits of any proposed plans was highly appreciated by his colleagues and the president of the school.

In 1899 Professor Alfred Bayliss of Streator became Supt. of Public Instruction. He gave freely of his time and counsel to the welfare of the school. His sound judgment coupled with a wide knowledge of educational forces at work in the state was of great significance to the institution. By his oft repeated observations relative to the school at Carbondale, it was known that the Southern Illinois State Normal University had a very warm place in Mr. Bayliss' affections. This feeling was mutual, as the entire student body and the faculty held him in the highest esteem, and were inspired by his kindly counsel, lofty ideals and cordial greetings. It seemed proper to name the athletic field in his honor. His tragic and untimely taking away was a great shock to his many friends at the Carbondale school.

Mr. Bayliss was followed in 1907 by the Honorable Francis G. Blair, who had been Superintendent of the training school of the Eastern Illinois State Normal School for a number of years. He is now nearing the close of his second term of four years each. Altho a younger man than any of his predecessors were, when in office, his special preparation and training for the duties thereof, enabled him to take front rank among the state superintendents of the nation. Mr. Blair has been signally fortunate in securing favorable legislation affecting the interests of education thruout the commonwealth, especially during the later sessions of the General Assemblies. The scope of the office is much enlarged and effective, the force now numbering six or more efficient helpers.

PRESIDENTS OF THE FACULTIES

The institution was indeed fortunate in having for its first president a gentleman of rare scholarship and broad culture; one of most excellent character and large experience as an educator. Because of these attainments, Dr. Allyn was peculiarly fitted for the leadership of young men and women who contemplated entering the profession of teaching; more especially was this valuable at the opening of a normal school which was destined to play an important part in the evolution of a people in a condition ripe for the leaven which such a school could spread thruout the southern portion of Illinois. Very few educators have been able to leave a more wholesome and lasting influence upon an institution and a large section of country than did Dr. Allyn. After eighteen years of most valuable service he retired in 1892. He remained in Carbondale till the date of his death, January 1894.

Professor John Hull, who had been in the faculty from the beginning of the second year, followed Dr. Allyn as president. During the one year in which he occupied this position the exhibit for the "Columbian Exposition" was prepared by the school. The friends of the institution had just cause for a feeling of pride on account of the very great excellency of this exhibit. Mr. Hull was followed by Dr. H. W. Everest late president of "Garfield University," Wichita, Kansas, whose term of service extended from 1893 to 1897. He also came to the school after an extended experience as president of several denominational institutions. He too, left an impress upon the school that will remain thru the years to come. During Dr. Everest's presidency the Science building was erected with an appropriation of $40,000; $10,000 less than was asked for. Under the administration of President Everest the institution made a decided advancement in many ways, especially in attendance. He was succeeded by the writer of this sketch, who had been a member of the faculty from the opening of the school. During the year 1897-1898 he served as "Acting President" and was elected president in the spring of 1898, occupying said position until September, 1913; making a term of unbroken service of thirty-nine years. During the years of his presidency, sixteen years, the library building, the model school building and the woman's building were each planned for and erected; the farm was purchased and the departments of manual training, household arts and agriculture were added to the curricula of studies.

President Henry W. Shryock came into the faculty in 1894 as a successor to the late State Supt. Samuel M. Inglis. In 1898 he was made Vice-President and Registrar. He enters upon his duties as president under propitious conditions, having a large measure of familiarity with the duties and responsibilities of the exalted position. This coupled with his extended acquaintance with the normal school people of the middle west, and the problems therein, give him a peculiar fitness for the duties of president. The friends of the school anticipate a continuation of the growth and popularity of the institution in its ideals, its usefulness and in its attendance. The installation exercises were held in connection with the dedication of the woman's building on October 23, 1913. These were of unusual interest and marked a new era in the life of the Southern Illinois Normal University.

VICE-PRESIDENTS

The office of vice-president was not created till the year 1894. Those who have served in that capacity are as follows: The compiler of these notes, serving from 1894 till 1898, when he was succeeded by Professor Shryock, who served till his promotion to the presidency, when Dr. C. E. Allen was honored with the office.

REGISTRARS

This office has from the first been one of responsibility. The first incumbent was Professor C. W. Jerome who met the demands of this position with great satisfaction from June 1874 till June 1891. He was followed by Professor John Hull till his promotion to the presidency in 1892. He in turn was followed by the writer who looked after the duties of the office till 1898, when Professor Shryock assumed the responsibilities of this position, acting in said capacity till made president in 1913.

Mr. Shryock was succeeded by Professor Allen who is the present incumbent and meeting the demands of the office with great satisfaction to all concerned with the affairs of the institution.

TEACHERS

In addition to the above brief references to those who have had the larger responsibilities of the institution the writer asks the privilege of naming a few of those who have labored long and efficiently for the good name and upbuilding of the school. These will be noted in the order of their length of service and confined to those who have labored not less than twenty years.

Miss Martha Buck has the distinction of serving longer than any of her associates, being now in her fortieth year, with but few leaves of absence, and these never for a period longer than one term. Her services have been confined very largely to the field of English grammar and kindred subjects. During this time she published a text on grammar which she has used herself and it has been adopted by others, especially by those who have been her students.

Miss Buck's influence for good among her students and in the community has been very extended and pronounced. She has a multitude of loyal friends among the thousands of former students scattered thruout the state and nation.

Professor George H. French came to Carbondale in 1876 to assist the late Dr. Cyrus Thomas who at that time was State Entomologist in addition to his duties in the institution as head of the department of natural history. In 1877 Mr. French was made curator of the museum. Upon the resignation of Dr. Thomas in 1881, Mr. French became his worthy successor, where he has labored very faithfully and efficiently with scarcely a day's absence, not excepting the summer months.

For the past few years his labors have been much lightened by the appointment of Professor John P. Gilbert, who was placed in charge of the department in 1910. In addition to his arduous duties, Professor French has found time to write for scientific journals of varied character. Some years since he published a treatise on "The Butterflies of the Eastern United States." His reputation as a scientific student and writer is international, belonging to the following societies: Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Sciences; Member of the St. Louis Academy of Sciences; of the Entomological Society of France; of the Entomological Society of Belgium; Associate Member of the Natural History of Lubie, Germany; of the Entomological Society of Ontario; of the Entomological Society of New York; of the American Entomological Society; of the Philadelphia Academy of Sciences.

Miss Matilda F. Salter, who was elected to succeed Miss Lilian B. Ford as head of the department of Art, in 1885, is still a member of the faculty. She is now in her twenty-ninth year of efficient service, with a few periods of absence on account of ill-health.

Professor George W. Smith entered the faculty in the fall of 1900, first as training teacher in the seventh and eight grades; which position he occupied for seven years, when he was placed in charge of the double department of History and Geography. In the course of six years a separate department was made of geography, with Professor Frank H. Colyer in charge. Mr. Smith is now in his twenty-fourth year of service as one of the most capable teachers of the institution. Since 1894 he has been secretary of the faculty. A few years since he published an excellent text on the "History of Illinois," and later a "History of Southern Illinois" in three large volumes. A most creditable effort as a writer of history.

Dr. Carlos E. Allen became a member of the teaching force in 1894 when he succeeded Mrs. Clara B. Way, to have charge of the department of Latin, Greek and German. He has labored with marked acceptability in said department till the present time. At the meeting of the Board of Trustees last June, Mr. Allen was made Vice-President, Registrar and Financial Agent, in addition to his regular class duties. At the expiration of the present year, he will have served nineteen years, having been given a year's absence a few years since; otherwise he would have served twenty years, as the tabulated list of teachers indicates. During the later years he worked out the degrees of M. A. and Ph. D. at the University of Chicago; making an excellent record as a student in advanced work.

Not to mention the librarian, who rendered the longest service and with marked acceptability, would be an unwarranted oversight.

Miss Minnie J. Fryar, an alumna of the school was of the class of 1886. After teaching several years she was offered the position of librarian in 1892, which position she occupied for seven years, when she was transferred for two years to the department of English, as instructor. In 1901 she was again placed in charge of the library and remained till 1905, when she resigned to assume the duties of a higher calling, that of companion and home keeper of Mr. H. L. Kessler, of the class of 1900.

As the successful military campaign could not be waged without the faithful private in the ranks, so the efficient ongoing of an institution depends in no small measure on those in less conspicuous positions. All students and teachers connected with the school during the last twelve years will ever remember with much gratitude the faithful and efficient services of Miss Lula Peay, who served as Secretary to the President from 1901 to 1913. However busy she may have been with her own special duties, she was always willing to attend to the calls of students and faculty for information and assistance in a most gracious and patient manner. The records of the institution show a larger number of entries made in her hand-writing than in that of any other. She resigned her position last June to assume the more exalted duties of Mrs. Arthur G. Cross, of the class of 1897.

It would be an unexcusable oversight were no reference made of the exceptional services of Mr. John Amon of the janitor service. He came as the assistant to Mr. Richard Tierney, who on account of ill-health resigned after many years of faithful and efficient labor as engineer and head janitor. Mr. Amon began his service in 1897; became head janitor in 1898, and is still at the head of the force. No institution ever had an employe of greater fidelity and promptness. The members of the Literary Societies and the Christian Associations will ever remember with gratitude

Mr. Amon's faithful services in their times of regular need and in special emergencies.

MILITARY TACTICS

Not long after the opening of the school it was learned that the federal government was willing to supply the institution a military equipment necessary for giving the more elementary forms of military tactics, and to detail an officer to have charge of the work.

In the year 1877 Brev't Captain Thomas J. Spencer, U. S. A. was detailed to Carbondale to take charge of this new department, being one of a very few assignments of this character to a normal school.

After three years of service in this capacity the captain was assigned to other duties, and First Lieut. Hugh T. Reed was selected as his successor, who likewise served three years, retiring in 1883. He in turn was succeeded by Lieut. Charles G. Starr, U. S. A., remaining in charge till 1886, when he was followed by Lieut. James Franklin Bell, U. S. A., resigning the position in 1889, when the government ceased to make further assignments to the institution. However, in a less pretentious way, the organization was continued four years longer under the leadership of Professor George V. Buchanan of the class of '84 who had distinguished himself, while a student in the school, as one of the captains in the department. Since 1893 no work of a military character has been offered by the school, much to the disappointment of many young men, and serious loss in some very essential features of manly training, and physical development. During these seventeen years the young men of the school took great pride in their drills and maneuvers, and in meeting the requirements of their several official positions.

Of the above named officers, from the regular army, Mr. Bell is the only one still in the service. Since leaving the school in 1889 he has distinguished himself on many battlefields in the Philippine Islands and in other ways. In 1906, he was honored by President Roosevelt in being made "Chief of Staff." At this writing he is now on his way home from the Philippines with the supposition that he is to take charge of the Department of the Lakes, with a strong probability of being sent to the Mexican Border, provided the policy of "Watchful Waiting" should give place to more active military participation in the affairs of our neighbors on the South.

ATTENDANCE

In giving an exhibit of the attendance there is some difficulty in making comparisons on account of having changed the classification from time to time. From the first the regular normal courses have required rather strong entrance preparation, necessitating a preparatory or sub-normal course, which offered the necessary training in study and scholarship for those not qualified for the regular normal courses. These have been classified as normal students. The first two years of the high school have usually been classed as a part of the Training School.

The figures are taken from the regular catalogs as they were published from year to year.

While it is too early in the school year to name the exact figures for the present year it is a pleasure to state that the attendance has been far in excess of any previous year; especially is this true of the spring term, which has just opened. This is, in part, due to the very favorable provisions of the new "Certification Law," referred to in the observations on "The Alumni." It is estimated the attendance at the present time is quite fifty per cent increase over that of any previous term, a very gratifying condition to the management of the institution and its thousands of friends thruout the state. It is estimated, also, that the graduating class of the present year will be sixty-five per cent larger than any former class.

THE ALUMNI

From the above table it appears that the number of graduates has ranged from four to thirty-eight, with a total of six hundred eighty-one. The average is a trifle less than eighteen per year.

The number in the graduating classes has not been as large as the attendance would indicate. This may be accounted for in part by several causes, viz.: the demand for teachers, especially in the more recent years, has been so urgent, the county superintendents have been compelled to urge even those whose preparation has been less than a full normal course, oft-times but a year, and infrequently but one term, to engage in teaching. In many instances after the young man or young woman, as the case might be, had begun to earn money in this way it seemed difficult to stop teaching long enough to complete a regular normal course. Second, not until recently has the state adopted a plan for the certification of its teachers that made the completion of such courses in any sense attractive. With the exception of two short periods, Illinois has failed to honor the product of its own normal schools by any reasonable concessions in the matter of issuing certificates. The last General Assembly, however, redeemed the good name of the commonwealth by writing on the statute books a certification law that offers to the graduates of the normal schools some inducements that heretofore have not obtained.

In the third place, not until recently, has the school offered any but the two regular normal courses for diploma work, and these have purposely been kept reasonably strong, requiring for the average country boy five full years of solid work. Under the circumstances it is not strange that a comparatively small number completed the prescribed courses. Within the last few years a number of more elastic courses have been offered and given the same recognition with reference to graduation, viz., manual training, household arts, agriculture and commercial. With these inducements it is fully expected that the graduating classes will be much larger hereafter.

Not only will the new certification law tend to increase the size of the graduating classes but it will favorably affect the general attendance, since it places a premium on even a briefer period than to complete a full course. The advocates of the state normal schools have labored and waited patiently and long for this just recognition of the work of the institutions which have for their special function the preparation of young people for the duties of the school room and the evolution of the character and life of the youth of the state.

THE EVOLUTION OF THE TRAINING SCHOOL

It is conceded that the prime purpose of a normal school is to prepare prospective teachers for their special calling. Horace Mann conceived the idea that the teachers of this country needed this training as well as those of Germany and succeeded in demonstrating the soundness of his theory in his own state at an early date. Some years elapsed before the advocacy of this doctrine could secure much of a hearing in the newer states. The agitation of this new doctrine reached Illinois in the early fifties and resulted in an act of the legislature being passed in 1857 for the establishment of a Normal University.

Twelve years later the subject of this sketch began its career, with the conviction in the minds of its leaders that a normal school without a Training Department was a misnomer. Hence from the first the Model School has received no small share of attention, and evidences of a real serious study of the needs of the school are, perhaps, more apparent here than in any other department of the institution.

Miss Julia F. Mason was its first Principal. For a short while after her retirement it was not well organized; but in 1882, Professor John Hull was placed in charge, still retaining charge of pedagogy and higher mathematics. For two years he was assisted by Miss Mary Sowers, who was succeeded by Miss Alice Krysher in 1884, and she by Miss Ann C. Anderson in 1886. Miss Anderson was succeeded by Miss Theda Gildemeister in 1893, who in turn was followed by Miss Ada P. Wertz in 1897.

These assistants were in personal charge of the first six grades till 1893, when Miss Irene Furgeson was employed to assist Miss Gildemeister, and in 1897 Miss Lizzie Parks became the assistant to Miss Wertz, and later placed in charge of the primary grades, as critic teacher. She resigned in 1900, and her position was filled by the appointment of Miss A. Esther Wilson, who remained till 1910.

When Mr. Hull was elected "Regent," as the position was then called, in 1892, Mr. William F. Rocheleau, was placed in charge of the Training School. Upon his resignation in 1895, he was succeeded by Mr. James Kirk, who came to the school from the office of State Supt. Raab, where he had served as Assistant to Mr. Raab. In this capacity Mr. Kirk labored till he was placed at the head of the department of mathematics, and Prof. J. T. Ellis was made head of the department, in 1901. Mr. Ellis was in charge till 1905, when Prof. Samuel E. Harwood was placed in charge and remained till 1910 when Prof. Charles Herbert Elliott succeeded him. In 1913 Prof. W. A. Furr was appointed Mr. Elliott's successor, and is in charge at the time of the writing of this bulletin.

From 1897 till 1908 there were but two critic teachers for the first six grades; after the latter date the school was able to have a critic for each two grades, including the ninth and tenth grades, which became a part of the training school. By this time the Superintendent was able to give his entire time to this department, while a number of the regular teachers of the normal classes assisted more or less in the teaching; especially was this true in history and geography.

New life was given to the Training School when it was given a building of its own in 1909, which contributed very largely to the comfort of the children and their teachers, to the organization and efficiency of the department.

Some years prior to 1893, the institution offered a high school course somewhat after the plan of the older normal school at Normal, but Governor Altgeld was of the opinion that such a course had no place in a state normal school, and it was discontinued at his request. However, the demand continued and both schools reinstated these courses after a few years. As stated before, the first two year pupils were regarded as belonging to the practice school, but the third and fourth were taught quite largely along with the normal students, thus avoiding much extra expense in caring for the high school pupils.

The Model School is provided with a good supply of out-door playground apparatus, and the children have access to the privileges of the gymnasium. They have sufficient ground assigned them from the farm for school and landscape gardens. From its early history, the institution has regarded the training school as an indispensable part of the normal school organization, and have sought to make it as helpful as possible to the would-be teacher.

MANUAL TRAINING AND HOUSEHOLD ARTS

These two departments were not added till in the later years, due in some measure to the lack of room. The former was introduced with a fairly good equipment in the summer of 1907, under the supervision of Miss Myra M. LaSalle, who was followed the next year by Prof. Louis C. Petersen, who increased its scope and equipment. He is still in charge. Mr. Petersen has published a number of bulletins that have been in demand, not only in this country but in other lands.

The department of domestic science was installed in the summer of 1909, with Miss Grace E. Jones in charge, who planned the equipment and the courses of study. These have been revised somewhat, to meet the needs of the growing department, with Miss Lucy K. Moody as assistant.

The two departments have been very popular and have added much to the attractions of the school; a number of students have been employed as teachers in these subjects in the public schools of the state.

AGRICULTURE

While more or less attention had been paid to elementary agriculture, for some years, especially in what was termed the State Course, it was not given the dignity of a separate course till the General Assembly of 1911 made an appropriation for that purpose, which included the purchase of a farm and the fitting up of suitable laboratories for the analysis of soils, testing soil fertility, etc. The Institution was fortunate in being able to obtain a tract of land adjoining a part of the campus with only a country highway intervening. The tract lacks but little of having sixty acres in it and is regarded as a wise and profitable investment. The last legislature made a generous provision for the purchase of modern farm machinery, some pedigreed stock, and for more completely equipping the laboratories. In addition to the above a typical Farm Home is to be erected on the state farm for the purpose of exhibiting to the students, not only those in this special department, but to all who are interested, the ideal conditions of a rural home as far as this may be shown at an institution of learning.

This fragmentary account of these rather recent additions to the scope of work of the institution may be regarded as a sample of the ambition of the school to offer the young people of Southern Illinois the best facilities in school work that are known, and to make the school of maximum value to the section of the commonwealth in which it is located.

THE COMMERCIAL COURSE

While Bookkeeping was taught in the early years of the school, and was one of the prescribed studies for many years it was eliminated to make room for some of the more professional branches. However, the recent demand for vocational training has made it seem wise to restore bookkeeping to a place in a regular course and add thereto typewriting and other kindred studies and offer a regular commercial course. This has necessitated the purchase of an equipment of typewriters, the establishment of a banking outfit and other features peculiar to this department.

This departure was made to keep step with the march of progress in the educational field, which calls for a provision for the types of mind not attracted by the regulation courses, which must ever be held as the typical line of study for the prospective teacher.

THE LIBRARY

From the beginning of the school, the value of a good reading and a good reference library has been recognized as a very necessary adjunct to a normal school. Dr. Allyn gave wise attention to the selection of such pedagogical works as would be of the greatest value to those contemplating entering the profession of teaching.

At first the small collection of books was housed in the northeast room of the fourth floor under the mansard roof, and remained there till the burning of the building in 1883. Altho the books were on the fourth floor, by the herculean efforts of the students, teachers, and friends in the town, but few volumes were lost.

During the interim, till the new building was erected, the books were kept in the temporary structure, and in some of the buildings of Carbondale. Strange as it may seem, but few books were lost during these three years and four months. Upon the completion of the new building the northwest room on the second floor was set apart for the library. Here it remained till the erection of the Science building in 1896, when the books were taken to the north east room on the first floor of this building.

Upon the erection of the library building in 1904 the books were again moved, and this time to a home designed especially for that purpose. The entire first floor of this building is occupied for library use.

The catalog of 1878 is the first one that makes any reference to the library. It states that there were at that time "about 5,000 carefully selected volumes, including a professional library for teachers." The following exhibit shows the number of volumes reported in the several catalogs from year to year:

VOLUMES IN THE LIBRARY, 1878-1913.

1878.....5,000	1890..... 9,000	1902.....16,800

1889.....8,000	1901.....15,160	1913.....24,729

From the above tabulated exhibit it appears that at a few periods there seem to have been no books added during several years; especially was this true just after the burning of the first building when there was no additional room for new books, and the extra expense of moving and storing books, apparatus, furniture, etc. consumed all funds not needed for actual demands on the treasury.

LITERARY SOCIETIES

This historical sketch would be far from complete were no reference made to the literary societies that have played no insignificant part in the cultural work of the institution. Quite early in the first term of the school the question of organizing such an agency for literary training was seriously considered; due in part to the fact that a number of the students had attended school at the older normal school, McKendree College, Ewing College and The Southern Illinois College, and were more or less acquainted with the importance of the training offered by such school agencies. As early as September 9, 1874, a petition was presented to the faculty asking permission to organize a literary society. The petition was granted and in a few days the following students were assembled in response to a call for the purpose of perfecting an organization: Robert H. Flannagan, John Qualls, J. M. Reeder, Heber Robarts, D. G. Thompson, N. Ellen Sherman, Charles E. Evans, Louis M. Kane, John N. Law, S. A. Maxwell, Mary Wright, J. M. Osborne, J. R. Dean and S. E. Sprague. At this meeting a committee was appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws to be presented at a meeting to be held one week later.

At the appointed time the committee was ready to report, and the important documents were accepted. At the same meeting the following officers were elected: President, Miss Mary Wright; Vice-President, Heber Robarts; Secretary, Miss N. Ellen Sherman. There seems to have been no need of a treasurer at first, as the record is silent with reference to this office.

The only available room for this new agency in the new normal school was the northwest room on the fourth floor.

To find a suitable name for this organization was not an easy task; but in due time one was agreed upon, quite unlike that of any other known to the members at that time and possibly not at the present date; for they were ambitious in more ways than one. This one before the days of vocational training, and any school course or literary organization that failed to have a pronounced flavor of Greek, Latin, and mathematics was regarded as of little consequence. The unique term "Zetetic," meaning a seeker, or lover of knowledge, seemed to meet the requirements. So the name Zetetic has been more or less on the lips of the students and faculty for nearly forty years, and will doubtless continue so for generations yet to be.

The motto of the Zetetic society has been helpful to hundreds of young people since it touches the two extremes of effort, "Learn to Labor and to Wait."

At the time of the fire the society was able to save all its furniture including the piano. During the rebuilding of the main building the society was housed in the temporary building in one of the recitation rooms. Upon the completion of the building two very choice halls were in readiness for the two literary societies, as very soon after the organization of the first one a second followed. These halls were frescoed and decorated with special reference to their use.

The younger society was the outgrowth of a demand for a debating club, which for a time was confined in its privileges to young men. While the young men heartily enjoyed their opportunities thus provided, the other society seemed to possess some attractions theirs did not. It was not difficult to determine the popular feature of the sister society, and it was but a short time till the ladies were admitted on the same terms as the young men.

The naming of the latter organization was less difficult than in the former case. It was soon decided to name it in honor of the great Athenian philosopher, and the name "Socratic" has been as familiar as that of "Zetetic" thruout the student-body of the institution.

The Socratic motto has been an inspiration not only to its members but all who have seen it on the walls of their hall and on the many programs presented to the public from time to time during nearly forty years: "Nulla vera felicitas sine sapientia"—No true happiness without knowledge.

The first home of this society was similar to the other, but at the south west corner of the same floor; a position less favorable at the time of the burning as it was almost immediately under the spot where the fire originated, which made it impossible to save all the furniture especially the piano, a loss they were ill-prepared to meet just at that time.

In the assignment of the two elegant halls in the restored building it was decided to grant the first choice on the basis of age. This resulted in the older one choosing the room on the front end of the building; at the north east corner of the third floor, leaving the one at the south east on the same floor for the Socratic people. These halls are counterparts of each other, having the same dimensions in each direction, and furnished as much alike as possible.

Upon the completion of the library building in 1904, it was found wise to locate the societies there. First, it was less trouble and less expensive to warm and light the halls and the corridors leading thereto. Second, it would be less disturbing to have the rooms over the library proper to be used at night, by the societies than by classes during the day. The rooms at the south and east ends were appropriated for this purpose.

Since a difference of a few months in age seemed insignificant in a reach of thirty years, it was decided to give them an equal chance in having first choice. The matter was made more interesting by having this done at the time of dedicating the building, and conducted by the Superintendent of Public Instruction, Alfred Bayliss, who followed a plan of his own, that of having the presidents of the two societies draw ribbons of different lengths from a book; the one drawing the longer ribbon to have the first choice. The Socratic president was the lucky one; resulting in their choosing the south room leaving the east room for the Zetetics. It was fortunate that in each room there are good qualities to offset those of equal value in the other.

During the presidency of Dr. Everest 1893-'97 two other literary societies were organized and for some time accomplished considerable good, but they labored under the disadvantage of having no halls set apart for their special use, consequently were less popular, and in a few years were abandoned.

Among the outstanding features of each of these organizations are the "Annual Spring Entertainments" which have been presented to the public as a part of the program of Commencement Week. These have received more than usual attention on the part of the membership. The student body and the general public have highly appreciated the faithful efforts of these young people in this field of general culture.

THE DEBATING CLUB

With less pretensions as to organization and entertainment when compared with the literary societies, the young men of the school continued an effort among themselves for training in forensic art, which has been productive of much practical value to those who have participated in the exercises thereof.

These groups of ambitious young men have called their company by various names; sometimes it has been designated as "The Debating Club" sometimes as "The Forum," but always with the same purpose, that of special practice in the high art of public speaking and parliamentary usage.

EXHIBITS AT EXPOSITIONS

THE CENTENNIAL EXPOSITION

The Southern Illinois Normal University having been opened on July 1, 1874, was sufficiently organized in 1876 to prepare an exhibit for the Centennial Exposition held that year in Philadelphia.

While the display was largely confined to bound volumes of manuscripts showing the ability of students in preparing school papers covering nearly the entire range of their work, it was a creditable exhibit for the time. The institution has in its possession an interesting diploma as evidence of having presented a worthy showing in the educational department of this exposition.

THE COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION

Seventeen years later, when the nation celebrated the Four Hundredth Anniversary of its discovery, in 1893, one year later than the exact date, the school was in a position to offer the public a more elaborate exhibit, both on account of having had experience in that line, and having a larger school program from which to draw for such purpose.

The initial preparations were made under the direction of Dr. Robert Allyn in the year 1872, his last year as head of the institution. It was completed in the next school year under the supervision of President John Hull.

In addition to the regulation manuscripts prepared for such occasions, which were handsomely bound and labeled, more attention was given to charts and outlines representing the work of students in their study of methods of teaching, determinations in laboratory work and observations while in the field. A much larger collection of photographs were prepared than in the former exposition.

An attractive "Hand Book" was published for the use of visitors, setting forth the general plans of the school, and calling attention to the most salient features of the exhibit.

The space allotted to the Southern Illinois Normal University was located in the south side of the east wing between that given to the State University and that allotted to the Illinois Normal University; covering an area of 27 feet by 39 feet. The Commission provided seventeen excellent oak cases with glass doors for exhibiting the charts, bound volumes and specimens of natural history, etc. These were placed east and west facing each other, except those at the ends with ample space for the passage of visitors. In the center of this open space were placed a desk, chairs, etc., for the use of the several attendants, and for a sort of headquarters for friends of the school who desired to avail themselves of its privileges. Parallel with the platform, on either side, were a counter and show case, in which were placed bound volumes, and material used in the Training School for illustrative purposes. The cases were arranged in two distinct groups, one for the Normal Department the other for the Model School.

At the close of the exposition the Commission donated to the institution these cases, which have been of great value to the school in the twenty years that have followed.

In order that the exhibit should be in the care of responsible care-takers, provision was made for two to be on the ground at all times. These were young men either in attendance at the school at the time or were former students. It was so arranged that each one served two weeks, the last week of one being the first week of the other. This provision prevailed thru the entire time.

The institution has much pleasure in the possession of a handsome medal and an elaborate diploma awarded her on account of her creditable display in the Centennial Exposition.

THE LOUISIANA PURCHASE EXPOSITION

This third and last exhibit was prepared for the Exposition held in St. Louis in 1904, under the special direction of the author of this Historical Sketch, and under the general supervision of Superintendent Alfred Bayliss. In some respects this display was less pretentious than the one prepared eleven years preceding. More attention was given to a collection of views of the grounds, buildings, recitation rooms, laboratories, groups of students at work, etc.

Among the special attractions were plaster models of the three buildings then erected, and placed on a large map of the campus, on a scale somewhat in proportion to actual measurements, and located in their respective position, showing the entire plant as a whole.

The photographs were taken very largely by the late Professor Jacob T. Ellis, then Superintendent of the Training Department. State Superintendent Bayliss gave much of his valuable time to the entire exhibit of the state.

While there were many unsatisfactory features in connection with these exhibits it is generally conceded that much value accrued therefrom and the cause of education was advanced to no inconsiderable degree at each time.

EDUCATIONAL CONDITIONS OF SOUTHERN ILLINOIS

At the time of the opening of the school in 1874 the status of the public schools was far from ideal; in fact they were farther from being ideal than in any other portion of the commonwealth. At that time there were but few high schools in this end of the state, and they were as far behind those of the present day as the graded schools of that day were behind those we now boast of.

Without doubt the effects of the civil war in Southern Illinois was more marked than in other parts of the state, both in its effects on the people and on the wealth of the region. The two combined to bear heavily on the cause of general education within its borders. It was no easy task to secure ample means for the erection of comfortable and attractive school buildings, and to employ competent teachers; consequently, when the normal school opened in 1874 it was confronted with the task of adjusting its service to the needs of the region in which it was to operate. This required tact and patience—two rare qualities in handling school problems, for the school is made for the child and not the child for the school. While there were differences of opinion as to how best meet these needs, there was agreement as to the aim which should prompt the activities of the institution. Doubtless this policy may have cost the school some prestige in some quarters, but it enabled many young people to avail themselves of the privileges of the equipment and the instruction of such a school who otherwise would have not enjoyed so favorable an opportunity to secure an education.

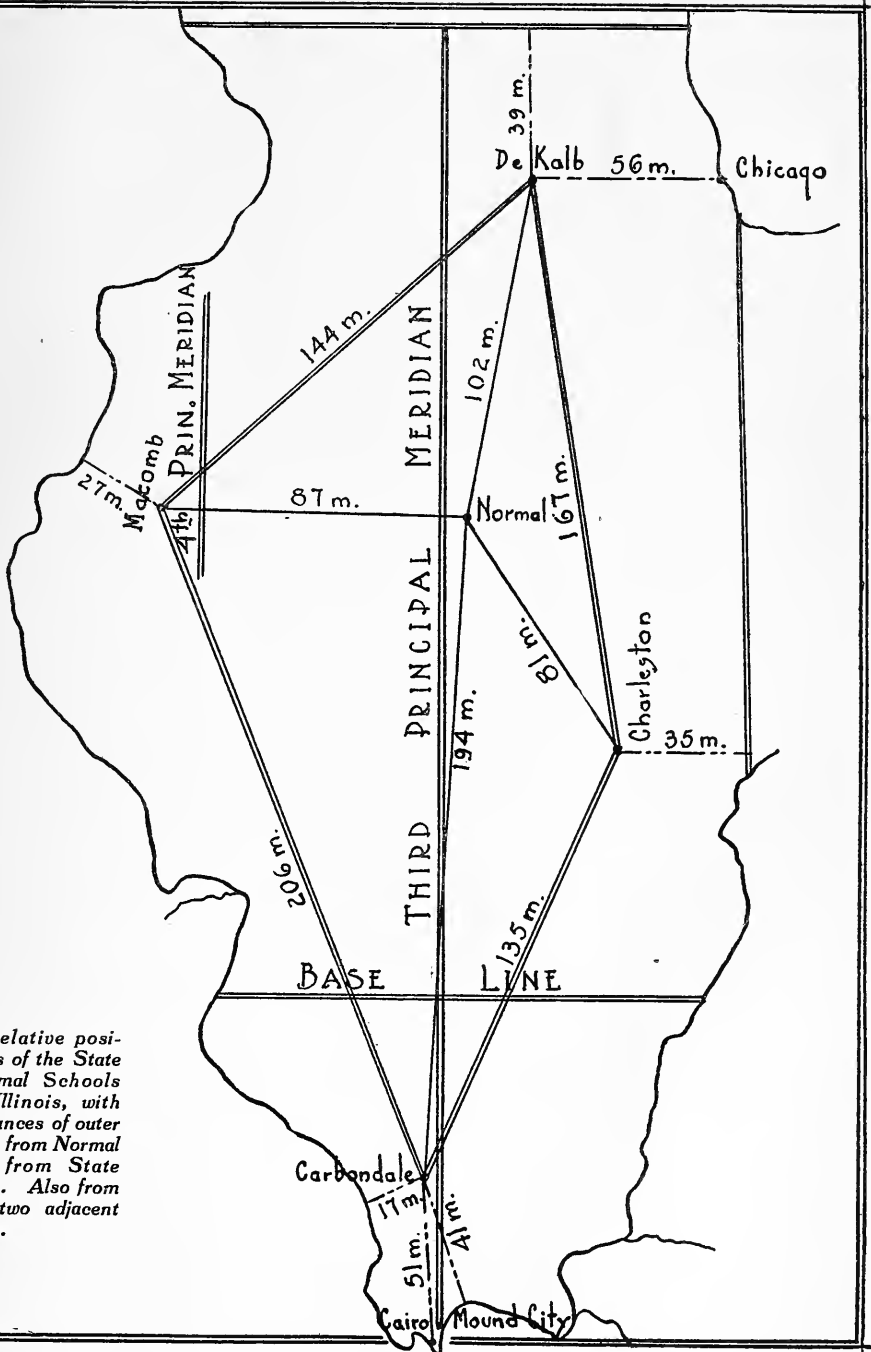

In addition to the above facts affecting the policy of the institution, the attitude of the school toward the problem of how best serve the children of the colored race of Southern Illinois was a matter of no little import. In some sections of the state it would not have been so significant, but in the section of the state in such close proximity to the region where race prejudice is marked, it was a serious proposition, and it was necessary to handle it with unusual care and wisdom.

THE CHURCHES OF CARBONDALE

In reviewing these matters relating to the effects of the institution on the educational and material advancement of Southern Illinois it is well to remember that many other agencies have contributed to these gratifying returns. The churches of Carbondale have co-operated in no small measure to the upbuilding of the character of those who have come under their benign influence. Those who have directed the activities of the institution have recognized the helpfulness of these religious organizations in supplementing their efforts in securing the fullest development of the young people committed to their care.

THE CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS

Among the agencies that have contributed in no uncertain way to the general tone of the school, even from the very early years, are the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations. These have been potent factors in keeping before the student body the need and value of Christian teaching and association in the formation of character that will meet the demands of life in all its phases. This has been accomplished in the spirit of genuine helpfulness in many ways, and devoid of offense to those most sensitive and critical, resulting in a pronounced advantage to those coming under this influence in its teachings and associations. The State College Secretaries have included Carbondale in their tour of annual visitations thruout the colleges of the state, and have encouraged and instructed the young people in their labors of brotherly interest and fellowship and the establishing of the highest type of Christian character.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

The Alumni Association now numbers 681, the majority of whom are progressive and potent factors in the educational work of the country. A review of what the different members have accomplished would be of interest to the reader, but space in these pages precludes anything further than their names in the order of their graduation and the number of years taught since that date. In a few instances the institution is not sure of their whereabouts; this is indicated by the interrogation point. Their present occupation is given as far as could be ascertained.

The officers of the association at the present time are as follows: President, Prof. Wm. T. Felts, Carbondale; vice-president, Mrs. Lillian Wyatt, Salem; secretary, Miss Mary Buchanan, Carbondale; treasurer, Bernard Harriss, Carbondale; historian, Mrs. Adella B. Mitchell, Carbondale; chairman executive committee, Wm. C. Fly, Carbondale.

A BRIEF SUMMARY

OF THE ALUMNI DEATHS.

Of the entire number who have graduated, six hundred eighty-one, fifty-three have died as shown by the single star opposite each name.

MARRIAGES

An examination of the list exhibits the fact that thirty-five couples decided to make the voyage of life together. In nine of these unions the contracting parties are classmates. Not less than seventy other graduates married those who did not complete a full course of study, hence their names do not appear in the list.

OTHER VOCATIONS

While the institution is a normal school and a large majority of those who have graduated have taught for a greater or less time, a few have gone into other professions and lines of effort and made for themselves enviable reputations in their several fields.

Of those who have taught fifteen years or more—one as high as thirty-two years, there are fifty-three.

Served in other professions as follows:

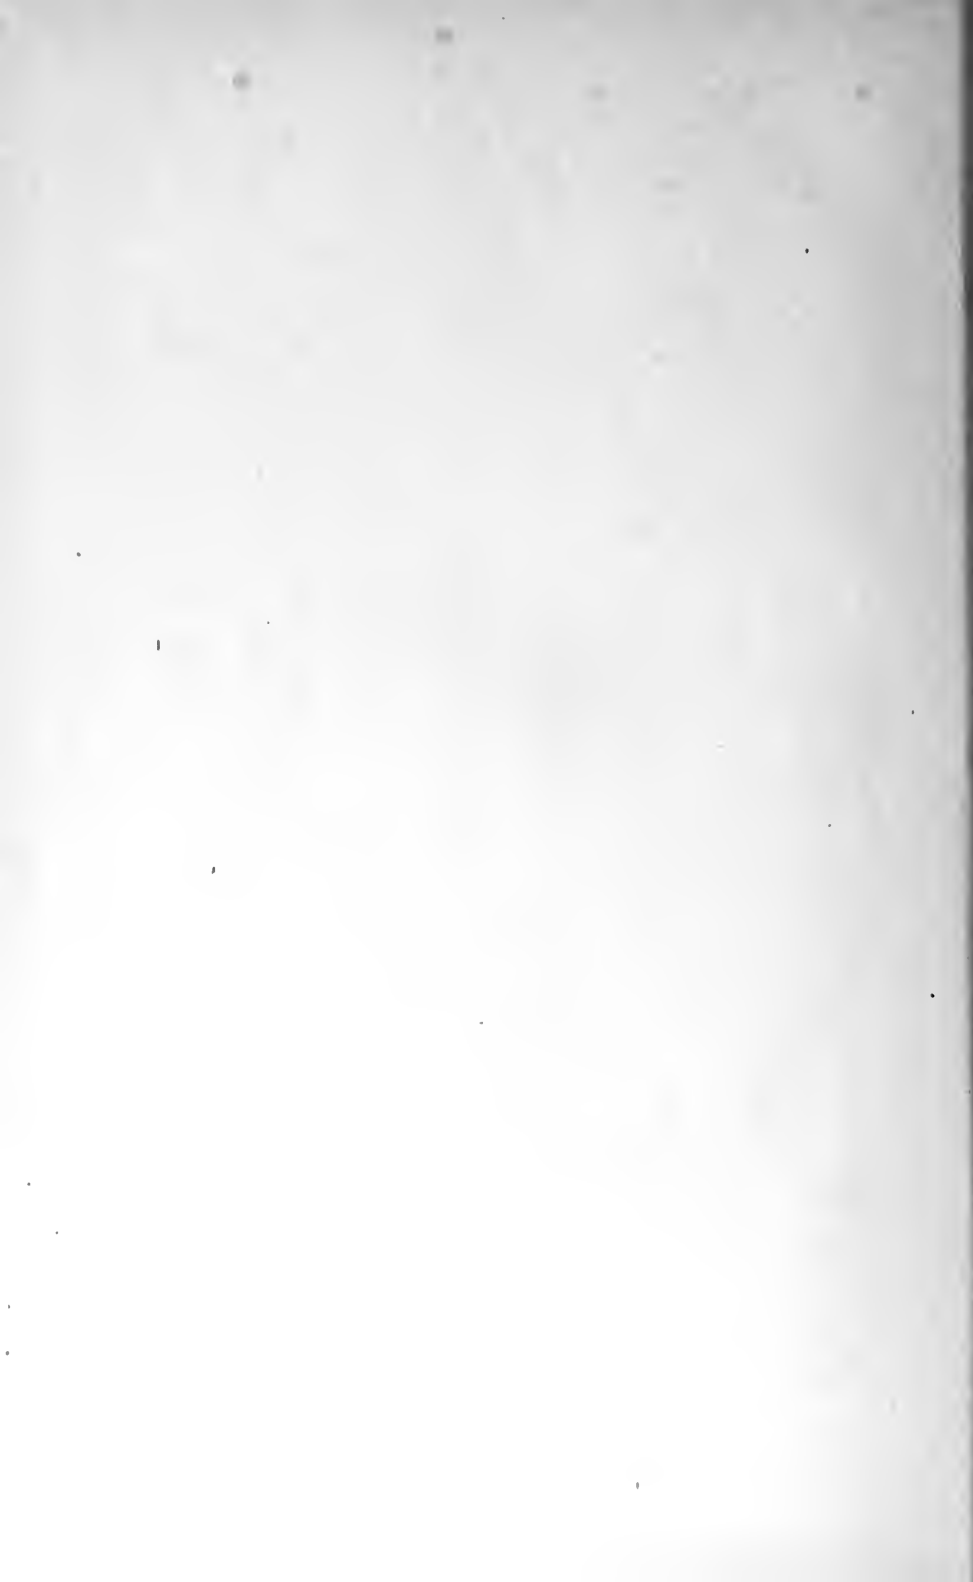

County Superintendents	12
Clergymen	8
Bankers	12
Political Leaders	10
Lawyers	29
Physicians	22
Dentists	3
Members of the faculty of the institution from one term to seventeen years	33
